"I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read and all the friends I want to see."

John Burroughs

When one thinks in retrospect about the successful year 1967-68 at Amherst County High School, each day was indeed "too short". No student could possibly have grasped every educational, cultural, or social advantage offered him at school. But every student had the opportunity to pursue a challenging course of study, to engage in his favorite extra-curricular activities and to enjoy his choice of the varied social activities. For each student at A.C.H.S., every day was filled with hard work, fun and fellowship.

Mr. Charles Lamphere
Special Music Education
Lynchburg College

Mr. Lamphere discusses plans for the music festival with Miss Whitehead.

Mr. Lamphere displays dedication and devotion to the musical profession.

Mr. Lamphere directs the Glee Club during one of its many practices.

The staff of the 1968 Amethyst wishes to acknowledge the contributions of one of the most hard-working teachers at A.C.H.S. A member of the Amherst faculty since the founding of the school, he has been a dedicated instructor and friend to countless Amherst students.

His ability as a teacher is underscored by the success of his students in various competitions. Under his direction, the band has consistently received ratings of excellent and superior in different annual band festivals. Also his choral groups have received high ratings in choral festivals. In addition, his training has developed numerous talented individual performers. Besides his activity as a high school instructor, he has generated interest in music throughout Amherst County by an elementary band program.

For his teaching ability and for his devotion to his profession, the staff dedicates the 1968 Amethyst to Mr. Charles Lamphere.

REBECCA BROCKMAN
July 9, 1951 - April 2, 1967

When death took Becky, everyone that knew her was filled with grief and sorrow. Now, even though the dull ache remains, one remembers her smiling face. This face reflected two of Becky's outstanding qualities, cheerfulness and kindness. Becky was a fast and willing worker, always ready to help in any way.

She was an active member of her church and an officer of her church's youth organization.

Supporting her school and participating in its activities, Becky left behind many memories, chief of which was her friendly manner with students and teachers alike.

In Memoriam

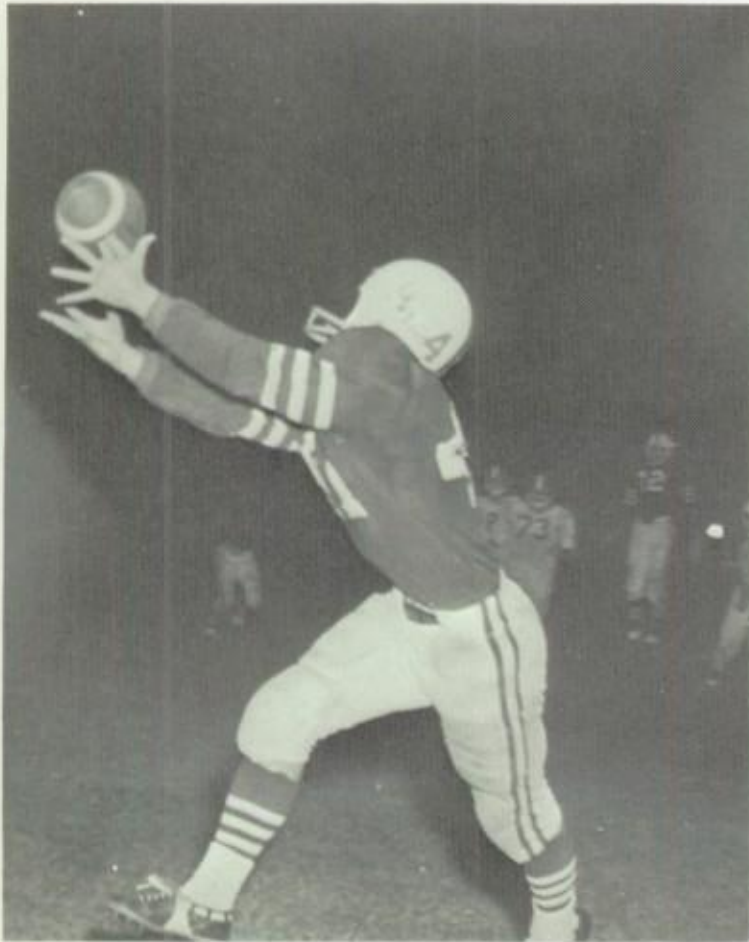

As the sorrow of losing a friend fades, we have many happy memories of George "Buck" Middleton's days at Amherst County High School. Well-liked, and regarded by all as honest and courteous, Buck made and kept many friends. He was greatly interested in sports and took an active part in wrestling and track. Buck Middleton will be remembered at A.C.H.S. for the part he took as a student, as an athlete, and as a leader.

The faculty combined forces to give the students at A.C. H.S. a better education than ever before. Although their schedules were filled with classes and with papers to grade, the teachers found time to sponsor clubs, classes, and to chaperone trips and dances. Nine additional teachers were added to the faculty. These lessened slightly the work load for teachers in a continually growing student body.

The twelve new members of the faculty soon became familiar to their students and to the teachers. They quickly adapted to their new surroundings and became a necessary part of A.C.H.S.

The teachers' concern for their students did not end with the class period. They provided guidance for many students. Numerous hours were spent helping students after school.

The teachers at A.C.H.S. deserved highest praise, for no matter how hard the problem was, or how frustrating the task was, the faculty always performed with perseverance and dedication.

Members of the Amherst County School Board: Mr. Edgar Fitzgerald, Pedlar; Mr. John Smith, Temperance; Mrs. T. L. Wright, Courthouse; Mr. Calvin Irvin, Madison Heights; Mr. Rawley Watson, Elon; Mr. Tyler Fulcher, Superintendent of Schools.

The Amherst County School Board did much to improve the quality of education at Amherst County High School. For the 1967-68 school session, the School Board appointed ten additional teachers for the high school and made possible the construction of the new A.C.H.S. gymnasium. Mr. Rawley Watson replaced Mr. Hampton Campbell as the Elon District Board member.

Mr. Richard E. Lee
B. S., Lynchburg College
M. Ed., University of Virginia

Amherst County High School was deeply indebted to its persevering principal, Mr. Richard E. Lee. Faced by the enormous task of supervising all aspects of the school program, social, academic, and athletic, Mr. Lee executed his duties with wisdom, tact, and skill. His timeless effort and ability as an administrator resulted in a successful and enjoyable year for all at Amherst High.

Mr. Lee displays sincere interest in all facets of ACHS activities.

Mr. Campbell and Mr. Lee discuss the action on the football field with an interested fan.

 M. Ed. Lynchburg College

Mr. Anderson assumes full-time administrative position.

Mr. Howard Anderson, A.C.H.S.'s energetic assistant-Principal, faced an increase in his administrative responsibilities. With a cheerful personality, Mr. Anderson helped to supervise many of the school activities. His helpfulness was especially appreciated in the operation of the book store, in the supervision of the student driving program and in the management of the attendance problems. In addition to these tasks, Mr. Anderson sponsored the Photography Club.

Mrs. Laura Herion

Secretaries maintain an amiable attitude despite their many duties.

Making announcements, answering the telephone, signing admit slips, and handling school financial records were only a few of the many jobs that the two busy secretaries faced. Mrs. Laura Herion and Mrs. Annabelle Campbell also supervised the lost and found department, the school store and the "general information" department. Cheerfulness, efficiency, and helpfulness made the secretarial staff at A.C.H.S. indispensable to the students and to the faculty.

Mrs. Campbell checks the daily absentee list, as Brenda Childress, office worker, uses the phone.

Mrs. Herion and Mrs. Campbell cheerfully perform their everyday chores.

Social Studies Department creates world awareness.

The Social Studies Department was concerned not only with teaching historical facts and governmental procedures but also with the formation of democratic ideas and understanding of the operation of private enterprise systems. The department was especially interested in the development of critical thinking and intelligent evaluation of situations in which the individual will find himself in school and later life.

The curriculum of the Social Studies Department includes History 8, Civics, World History, World Geography, U. S. History, Economics, and American Government.

With an additional full-time math teacher, the 1967-68 Math Department became stronger.

Through the study of general mathematics and algebra, the students learned the mechanics of bases, modulus, mathematical principles and concepts. Geometry, a combination of plane, solid, and coordinate concepts, stressed the importance of logic and deductive reasoning. Students received further preparation for college math by studying trigonometry, matrix algebra, and advanced algebra.

With the ever-increasing importance of science in daily life, the Science Department strove to direct interest to this highly specialized field. Eighth grade science, serving as an introductory course, prepared the students for the more advanced sciences of biology, chemistry and physics. Better equipment, sincere and dedicated faculty, and more up-to-date text books, all made scientific interest reach a zenith at A.C.H.S. All these factors encouraged many students to pursue the field of science further after graduation.

Foreign Language Dept. offers third year courses in Spanish and French for the first time.

In the 1967-68 session, some of the most important academic innovations were made in the Foreign Language Department. For the first time, third year courses in French and Spanish were offered for students who wished to pursue modern language study. With the adoption of new text books in the modern language department, more emphasis was placed on spoken French and Spanish.

In the Ancient Language Department, participation in the State Latin Tournament helped outstanding students to supplement their knowledge of Latin grammar, literature, and culture. Latin students studied basic grammar and translation in Latin I, Caesar's campaigns in Latin II and Cicero's orations in Latin III.

The physical education program was greatly enriched by the addition of a new gym which enabled physical education courses to be offered to the Junior and Senior classes also.

In addition to the regular classroom courses of health, first-aid, and drivers' education, a special course on gun safety was offered to the entire student body. Students competed in such sports as football, basketball, volleyball, and track.

These varied activities, coupled with good sportsmanship and teamwork as stressed by the instructors, helped the students develop stronger bodies and alert minds.

In the vocational subjects of auto mechanics, drafting, industrial electricity, and home economics, learning by practical application was emphasized to help students choose their future vocations.

Automotive mechanics was designed to teach the students how to maintain and to repair automobiles.

Drafting was introduced to teach students the basic drawing techniques and skills which would lead to more specialized work such as structural steel drawing.

Teaching electrical theory and application was the main purpose of industrial electricity. Students examined and repaired broken appliances.

All the courses in home economics were designed to help girls become better homemakers. First year students learned the basic fundamentals of sewing and preparing meals. Second year students focused their attention upon conserving food and balancing meals. In the advanced course, girls learned about money management, personal grooming, and home care of the sick. These valuable skills were displayed in the home economics Christmas exhibit.

With the advent of the 1967-68 school year, more people than ever before took commercial and business courses. Among these courses were shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, and business machines. To increase their experience in the commercial field, some girls took office and secretarial practice during their study halls.

The increase in student population influenced the Guidance Department more than any other department at A.C.H.S. The energetic trio, Mr. Thomas, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Flowers, found scheduling more time consuming and more meticulous than ever. The guidance directors administered standardized tests and interpreted these scores. Not only did the guidance counselors help to schedule students, but also they were always available to discuss college admission requirements, vocations and other problems concerning the students.

Library gains Archives Section

Under the excellent guidance of Mrs. Mary Keith, the library staff improved the A.C.H.S. library. An archives section was added to the library, enabling the students to make use of the recent periodicals. A goal of ten thousand books to be obtained for the library was established. Also, the audio-visual facilities were improved. As usual, the library provided books for research and entertainment.

Art Club is new addition to Fine Arts Department

The Fine Arts Department which included the art and music courses was a popular elective department at Amherst County High School.

The Art Department furthered its program by adding the Art Club and by continuing the classes of texture painting, drafts, abstract formations, and objective drawing.

In the Music Department, the organization was designed to meet the musical abilities of all students. Both band and glee club were offered to the eighth graders. Advanced band and glee club challenged the students in grades nine through twelve.

The Music Department was greatly strengthened since a second teacher was added. Miss Joyce Whitehead directed both band groups and Mr. Charles Lamphere directed both glee clubs.

Bus drivers maintain spotless record.

With the addition of several buses, the load of the bus became less and each student's journey to and from school became more comfortable. With efficiency and consideration, the staff of drivers attended to their daily task of keeping the buses clean and of transporting the students safely.

Daily confronted with the responsibility of peoples' lives, the drivers met their challenge and at the same time kept a friendly and helpful attitude toward all students. Although receiving very little credit, the bus drivers were a necessary and competent group of men and women who attributed to the success of A.C.H.S. life.

Bus Drivers work hard to keep the buses in good condition.

Many were the tasks that faced the industrious janitorial staff. With a larger school and larger student body, keeping A.C.H.S. "ship shape" and comfortable was a job of increasing responsibility. Other than cleaning, repairing and maintaining the premises and facilities of the school, the custodians found themselves constantly in demand to unjam scores of lockers. In addition to these tasks, the janitorial staff carefully prepared the school for dances and other social functions.

Maintenance Staff: John Beverly, James Staten, Claude Garland, Wendell Lomax, Edward Davis, and Viola Davis.

Cafeteria staff continues to serve A.C.H.S. commendably.

Meal time was a "happy time" at A.C.H.S., and the efficient cafeteria staff did much to promote this attitude. Not only did they spend much time and effort in planning and preparing nutritious meals, but also they encouraged the students to maintain the proper meal time attitude through their own friendliness and courtesy.

Office staff performs valuable services for secretaries.

The student office-staff, composed of girl volunteers, was a valuable aid to the secretarial staff. In addition to performing helpful services such as running errands and typing, they profitably learned correct office procedure.

Although the 1967-68 school session marked the end of a five year journey for the class of '68, Seniors found their final year their busiest and most exciting year at A.C.H.S. Seniors faced more responsibilities, studied harder courses and participated in more activities.

Early in the year, Seniors enthusiastically served in football concession stands and embarked on the annual magazine campaign to finance their Senior trip to New York. In academic and vocational classes, they diligently prepared themselves to meet the challenge of college or of a career. They enjoyed the special privilege of "being guests" at the Junior-Senior Banquet, Ring Dance and Prom. Senior leadership, citizenship, and talent was displayed in the S.C.A., on the athletic field, in the forensic and music programs and in the Senior Play. In the spring, the Seniors enjoyed the Senior Trip to New York not only as a class outing but also as an educational experience. Of course, graduation and the receiving of diplomas highlighted the year for each Senior. However, as a result of their experience at A.C.H.S., Seniors found that Commencement marked a beginning not an end to greater horizons.

Determination to excel prompted the underclassmen to make the year 1967-68 the best ever at A.C.H.S.

Juniors, truly an industrious class, made record candy sales and staged the Junior play in order to finance the Junior-Senior Banquet, Ring Dance, and Junior-Senior Prom. The presentation of the long-awaited classrings at the Ring Dance marked the highlight of the Junior Year. In the spring, through much planning and hard work, the Juniors gave the Junior-Senior Prom. In addition to the social activities of the Junior Class, the Juniors were very busy, preparing for college and for College Board examinations.

Midway through their high school years, the Sophomores took a more active part in school activities. Their activities ranged from serving at the Junior-Senior Banquet to playing Varsity sports and to joining the National Honor Society in the spring. A truly versatile group, they contributed much to their school.

The Freshmen's diligence in their newly chosen courses of study and their great influence in extracurricular activities revealed the promise of a truly industrious group.

Entering a new school and a new routine, the Eighth graders quickly became an integral part of the student body. They displayed enthusiasm in academic achievement, social and extracurricular activities and especially in sports.

The clubs and school publications at Amherst County High School were valuable assets to the school and community. Members of the clubs served their community by working at the Lynchburg Training School, by preparing Thanksgiving baskets for needy families, by sponsoring a bloodmobile, and by holding a charity drive.

Interesting showcases and informative programs sponsored by the clubs gave students valuable insights into careers of various fields.

Club-sponsored dances and projects were the major sources of entertainment at A.C.H.S.

School publications kept the student body well-informed of all events at A.C.H.S. The Amethyst provided a record of the year's events.

Each club was sponsored by a teacher whose skillful and expert guidance contributed greatly to the success of the club's goals.

These extra-curricular activities contributed greatly to the successfulness of the 1967-68 events at A.C.H.S. and admirably represented the school in the community.

hosts District S.C.A. Conference.

The S.C.A., host to the District S.C.A. Conference in December, was responsible for providing conversation topics, a speaker, entertainment, and refreshments for the visiting school students. At the beginning of the 1967-68 school year, the S.C.A. again sponsored a used book store and charged a handling fee which aided in financing the "Get Acquainted Dance". Lancer stickers, pins and pom-poms were sold during the football season and Lancer sweatshirts and t-shirts were sold during basketball season. To further increase the financial budget, the

All the activities of the S.C.A. were not work. During the Christmas vacation, it sponsored a semi-formal dance.

The S.C.A. showed continued interest in the A.C.H.S. graduates in the Armed Forces by sending them newsletters of the school's activities.

For concern in man's welfare, the S.C.A. fostered a blood-mobile and a charity drive.

paper yet at A.C.H.S.

The 1967-68 Amherite staff spent many hours of diligent work to produce a newspaper that would give its readers the latest information about school activities. The paper included current school events, editorials, sports reports, cartoons, and other features intended to inform and amuse the students.

Several changes were made in the 1967-68 Amherite. The size was changed and two extra pages were added. A first semester student, second semester student, and student of the year were recognized. These improvements helped make the 1967-68 newspaper the best yet.

Opening section is new

Producing a good yearbook required an enormous expenditure of time and effort by many people. The staff of the 1967-68 Amethyst began its work early in the summer, soliciting ads and planning the format for the yearbook. After the school term began, staff members spent long hours before and after school and during their study halls, writing and correcting copy, taking and processing pictures, identifying class pictures, drawing layouts, and doing all the myriad tasks which produce a good yearbook.

The efforts of the staff reached their climax at the final deadline. The staff then waited tensely for May when the yearbooks arrived and the student body at a special assembly showed their approval.

The 1967-68 school term proved to be a very active year for the National Honor Society. Under the efficient guidance of their new sponsor, Mrs. Adelaide Hapala, the club achieved many of the planned projects. Arranging displays in the show cases, providing scholarships, and aiding patients at the Lynchburg Training School were some of the projects the N.H.S. accomplished.

Although the main aspect of their society focused on scholarship, a participation point system, recently innovated, further stressed leadership and a responsible character.

Art Club is in its first year at A.C.H.S.

As a result of the increased interest in art, A.C.H.S. added to its regular features, the Art Club. In a Christmas exhibit, the Art Club presented many spectacular art projects. It was also in charge of decorating an Amherst store window during Christmas. As a fund raising project, the Art Club held a bazaar. Other activities of the Art Club consisted of field trips, participation in a poster contest and an art show during the spring.

Band participates in Christmas parades.

The band performed many activities throughout the school year. Band members played at all home football games as well as several away games. Candy and fruitcakes were sold in the fall to provide funds for the band. In November the band participated in the Amherst and Lynchburg parades and in December gave an annual Christmas Concert. An operetta with the choir was presented in January.

In the spring, activities of the band included participation in Amherst County Day, the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, a spring concert, and a music banquet.

DECA holds Employee-Employer Banquet.

Jimmy Christian
President

The Deca Club at A.C.H.S. performed many useful activities during the 1967-68 school year. On October 24, the officers of all Deca Clubs in the district were officially installed. In early November the club celebrated Deca Week. Later in the year the Deca Club held a contest in public speaking, sales demonstrations, and a display with schools of the district to determine who would best represent the district in the State Championship in Richmond. Finally, the Deca Club in May celebrated a good year of work with an Employee-Employer Banquet.

Amherst County High School, Group II District IV's leading high school, had a banner, interscholastic athletic year in 1967-68. Possessing the greatest coaching staff in Central Virginia, the athletic program soared to its zenith, extending the number of District Championships to four in only two years.

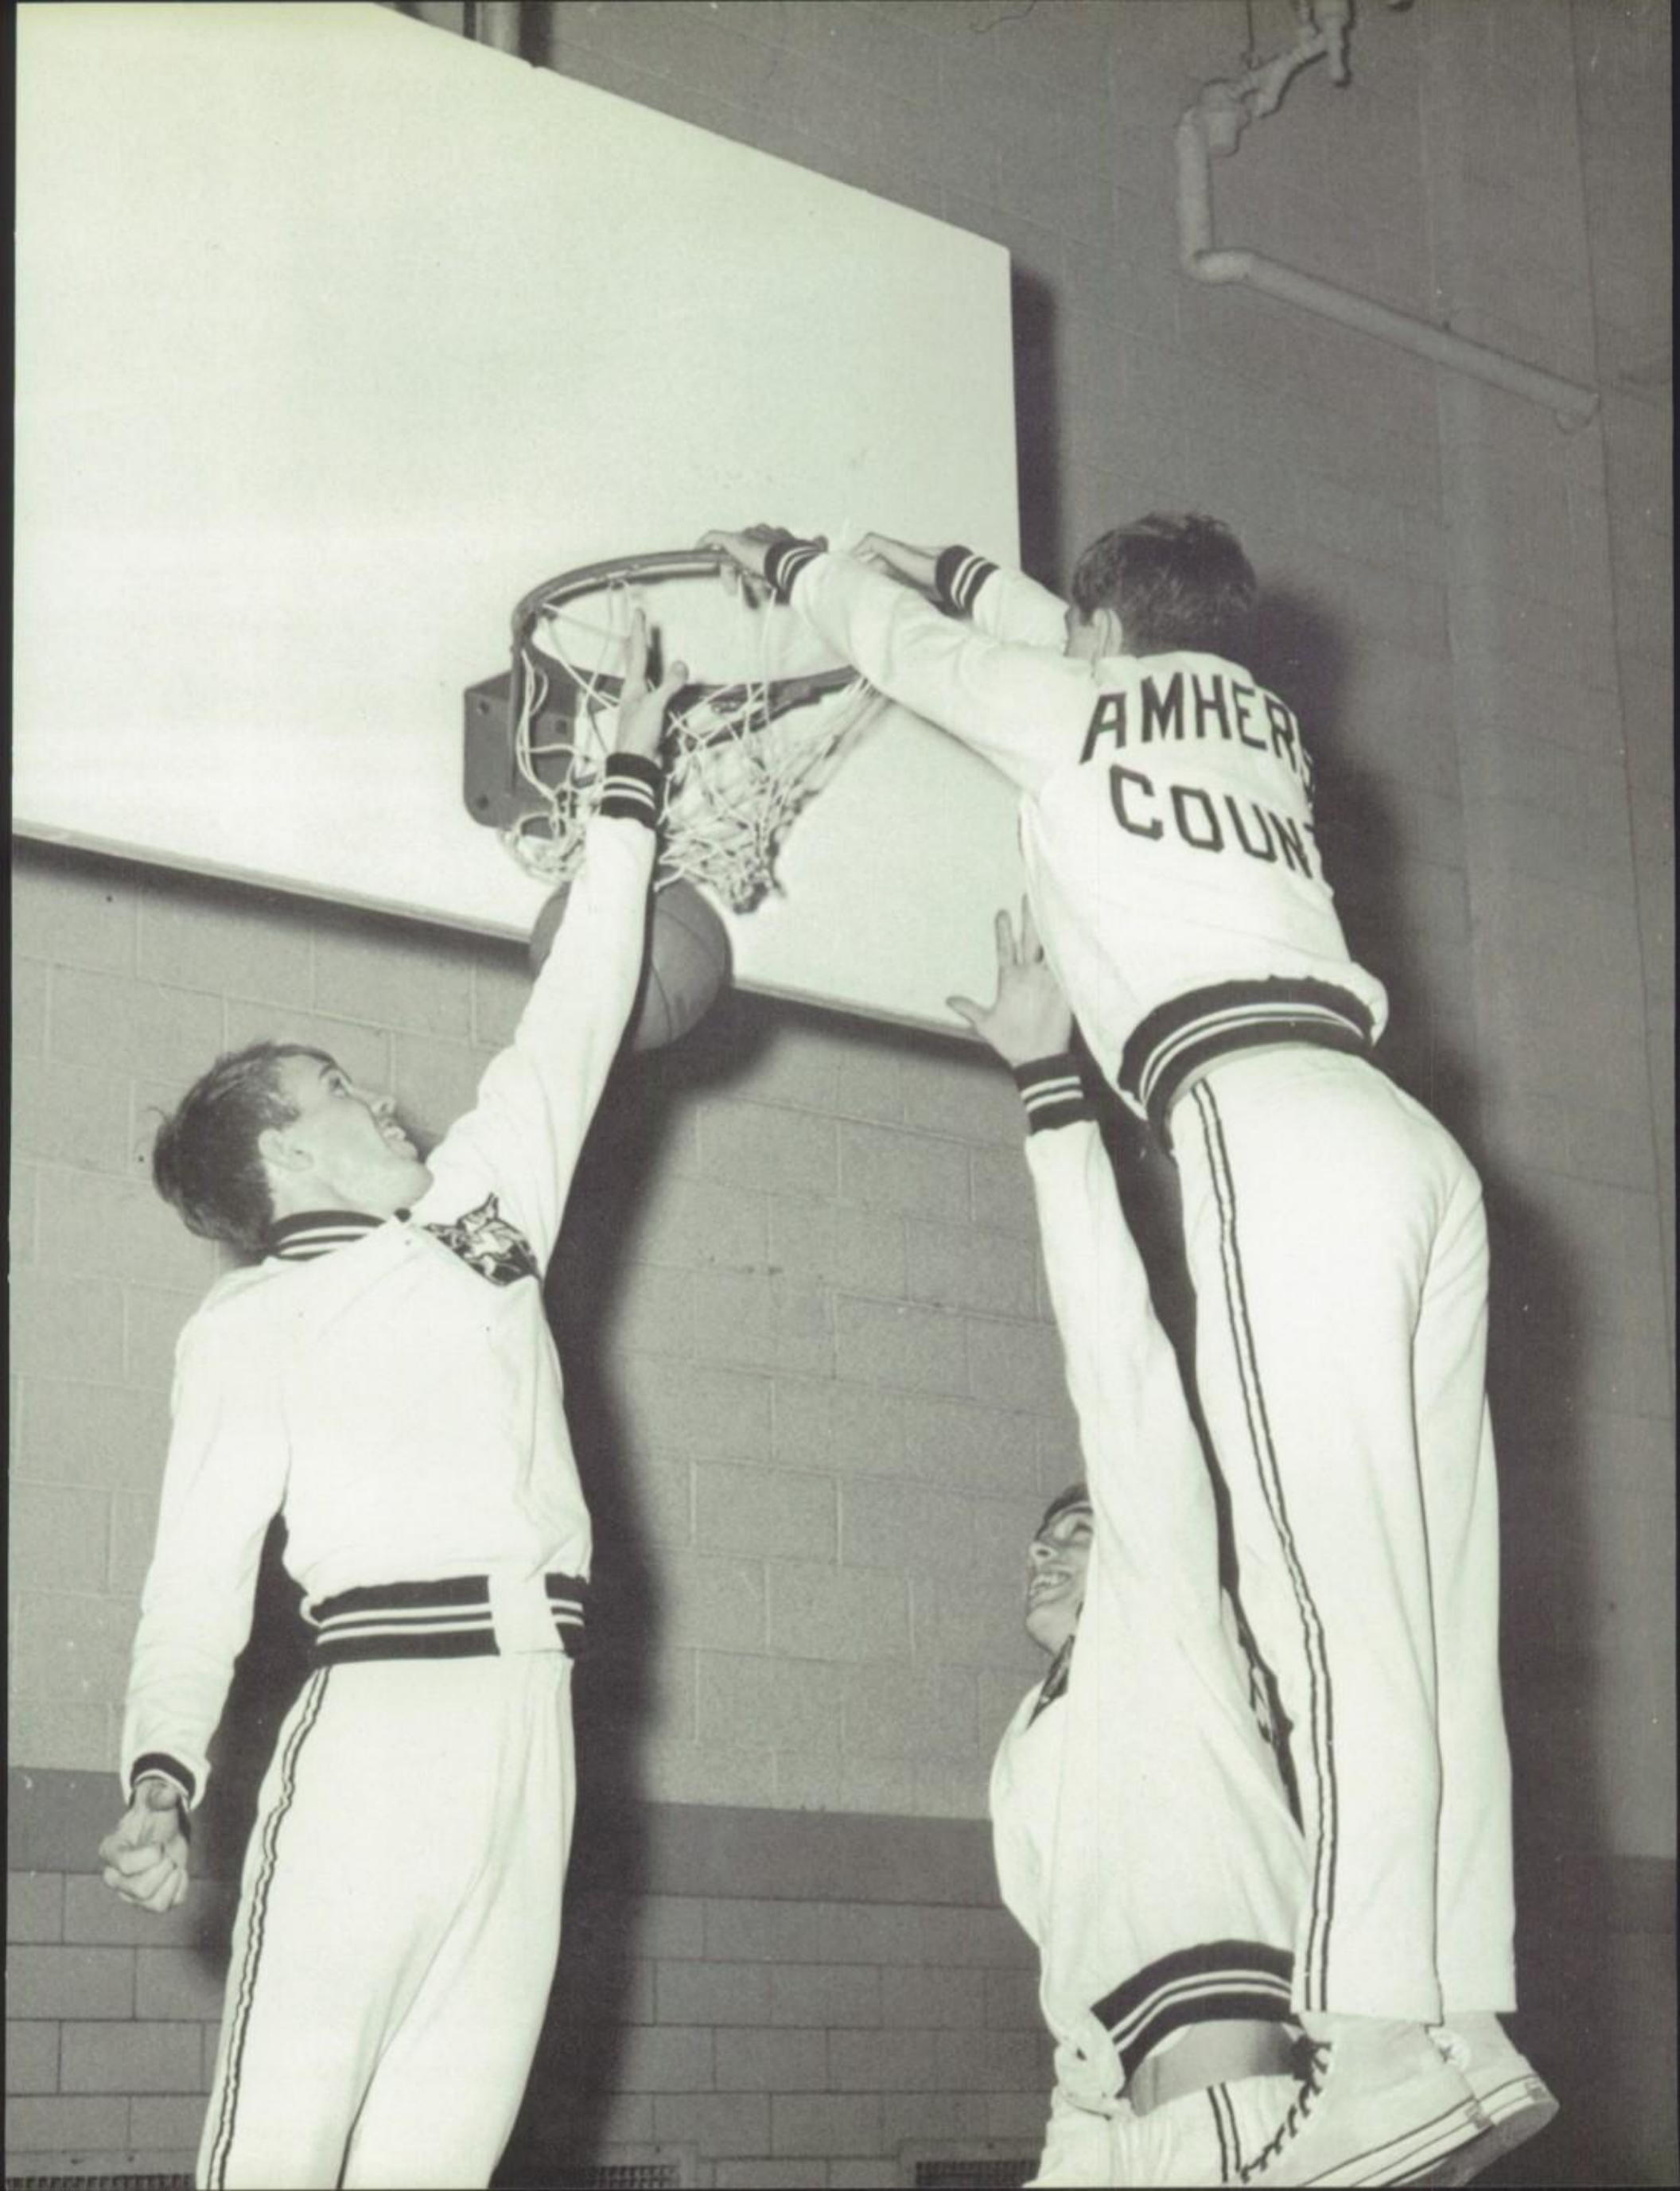

Overcoming small size with enormous desire, the '68 football team started off the athletic year by winning its second District Championship. Coach Tom Berry's eleven combined hustle and perfection of execution of fundamentals and carried on the Lancer ideal of winning.

The basketball team, aroused after losing its season's opener, went on to compile all wins against no losses, and earned a berth in the District Tournament. The Lancer quintet made an excellent showing in the Tournament. The "hit and run fast" edition of the '68 baseball team followed the football and basketball team's example and compiled an almost unblemished record, establishing themselves as an undisputed District leader.

Other sports, wrestling and track, attracted an even larger number of spectators and widened the scope of Amherst athletics.

To say the least, it was a year for Lancer fans to remember; 1968 was undisputedly the year of the Lancer.

ATHLETICS

Setting a district record by seizing their third straight championship, the Lancers demolished their seven district opponents in convincing style. In non-conference contests, the Lancers defeated two Group 1-B teams, as well as a highly-regarded Group 1-A school in a pre-season scrimmage.

Described by Head Coach Tom Berry, who has compiled in 5 years at ACHS a record of 43-5-2, as being "the finest team I've ever had", the Lancers boasted a backfield which kept the pressure on the opposing defenses unceasingly. To complement the offense's scoring prowess, the defense created an almost-impenetrable barrier between the opponent and the goal line throughout the season. Furthermore, the defense's alertness accounted for 19 pass interceptions and 17 fumble recoveries.

Despite numerous outstanding individual efforts, the key to the Lancers' success was their teamwork. The Amherst eleven displayed poise, discipline, and excellent execution.

Along with Head Coach Berry, Line Coach John Seal, Backfield Coach W. P. Ellis, Opponent Coach David Roberson, Chief Scout Gerry Thomas, and J. V. Coaches, Allen Campbell and Don Thompson helped to continue an Amherst athletic dynasty in Group II, District IV, originating with the 1965 Football Championship and the 1967 Basketball and Baseball Crowns.

J.V.'s finish season undefeated.

The "Baby Lancers" did their part to make 1967-68 the best sports' year at A.C.H.S. by finishing the season undefeated in district play. The well drilled and powerful team always displayed good sportsmanship and much determination. Junior Varsity players also gained valuable experience for future participation in football. The student body was truly proud of the J.V. team and their coach, Mr. Allen Campbell, for an outstanding job.

Managers and trainers keep Lancers in top "fighting" condition.

Receiving little recognition but accomplishing a very difficult task, the managers made a large contribution to Amherst athletics this year. Not only caring for the athletes but also running errands for the coaches and keeping the score for the various teams, the managers were constantly occupied. Admired by each team member they aided, the managers became just as much a part of the teams as the players themselves.

Hustle, defense, and experience marked the 1968 version of the Lancer basketball squad. Losing the season opener, the Lancer quintet steadily improved and compiled a 16 game winning streak, entering the Group II District IV Tournament as one of the favorites.

However, losing to William Campbell in the final game of the tournament, the Lancers narrowly missed winning their second District Championship.

Lancerettes post top District record

For the second consecutive year, the Amherst County Lancerettes captured the regular season district cage crown. After suffering a season-opening loss, the girls' team "chalked up" 14 straight victories. Throughout the season, highly-regarded Coach Barbara Wood inspired and instructed her team, enabling them to enter the tournament top-seeded.

Offensively, the Lancerettes averaged 40.2 points per game, with the individual scoring being fairly evenly divided among the starting forwards. Complementing the offensive play was the tenacious defense, which employed a match-up zone, holding the opposition to 36.9 points per game.

Despite the disappointing season finale, the Lancerettes must be commended for their outstanding two-year record, as well as for their ceaseless effort and desire, all of which were unparalleled in Group II, District IV.

The Lancer J.V.'s ended a very exciting season with an impressive 9-5 record. With the competent coaching of Allen Campbell, the "Baby Lancers" learned the basic fundamentals and techniques of the game and the value of teamwork. Both of these experiences will aid them in their future years on the varsity squad.

With vibrant spirits and a lot of hustle, the eighth grade basketball team sustained a 5-3 record. Throughout the entire season, the team, under Coach Gerald Thomas, kept alive their spirit and drive, qualities typical of the athletes of A.C.H.S. The "Baby Lancers" are looking forward to positions on next year's J.V. team.

Tony Tomlin studies his opponent in the important Brookville match.

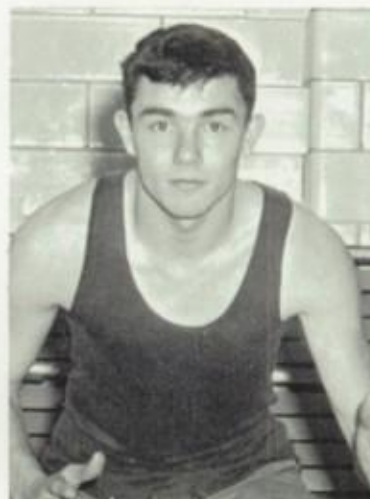

The Lancer wrestling team, under the guidance of Coach John Seal, compiled an impressive record. Although meeting some very stiff competition, mostly from larger 1-A schools, the matmen always displayed good sportsmanship and an earnest desire to win. Throughout the season and at the Regional Tournament in Roanoke, the wrestling squad acquired much experience. The boys gained valuable experience.

Jerry Bryant displays excellent follow-through.

Led by a versatile pitching staff and a strong batting battery, the Amherst baseball squad was once again a District powerhouse. Pulling several victories out in the closing innings, the Lancer Diamondneers proved themselves to be a clutch team. Adding "swift-footed" base runners to an almost perfect combination of pitching and hitting, the 1967-1968 Amherst baseball team was stronger than ever. Several of the more outstanding players were awarded for their proficiency in executing their baseball skills by having collegiate and professional contracts offered.

Billy Camm finishes the mile run in track practice as Coach Roberson checks his time.

The 1967-68 Lancer track team proved to be the strongest ever at Amherst. Rebuilding, after losing many lettermen to graduation, Coach Roberson introduced a winter weight program as well as arranged for several indoor meets at Lexington's indoor field house. Setting new paces and reaching greater heights, the Lancer cindermen aroused much interest to this comparatively new sport. The Amherst trackmen exhibited a driving desire to win, a trait essential to be a Lancer athlete.

Through the exciting football and basketball seasons, A.C. H.S. was led by ten energetic varsity cheerleaders. With their cheers and smiles, these girls increased the enthusiasm and spirit of the spectators. They encouraged the members of the teams on to victory after victory. Whether win, lose, or draw, the varsity cheerleaders always showed pep and spirit. The varsity cheerleaders were guided throughout the year by Mrs. Evelyn Harvey, their sponsor. This small group accomplished the big job of promoting Lancers' spirit and pep at A.C.H.S.

J.V. Cheerleaders back Baby Lancers

The Baby Lancers had a group of girls backing them up and encouraging them on to victory, the J.V. cheerleaders. Under the assistance of the sponsor, Miss Sharon Wirt, these girls promoted interest in the J.V. sports. Adding to the enthusiasm of the game, the J.V. cheerleaders' pep and spirit increased the determination of the Baby Lancers for a victory.

Features at A.C.H.S. played an important role in the extra-curricular activities of the students. The various dances, plays and banquets not only provided the students with fine entertainment, but also gave them a chance to take part in the activities and display their own talents.

The annual Homecoming festivities were popular with students, alumni, and faculty members alike. The Homecoming Dance served as an appropriate ending for an exciting football victory.

Much diligent work was put into the Junior and Senior plays, and the One-Act Play by the Forensic Club. All who gave their time and effort to produce these plays were rewarded by the spirited response of the audiences.

The Junior-Senior banquet supplied the Upperclassmen with a well-deserved treat. The opportunity to read their Last Will and Testament made the evening a special one for the Seniors.

The Junior-Senior Ring Dance was an occasion filled with meaning. On this night the Juniors received their long awaited class rings, a symbol of their years at A.C.H.S.

The Prom, which highlighted the year's activities, was a night of mixed emotions. For Juniors and Underclassmen, it began an eager anticipation of the coming year. For the Seniors, it was a time of sentimental remiscence of their previous high school days.

FEATURES

Homecoming is a success on football field and dance floor.

On October 27, 1967, the gymnasium was a scene of joy and gaiety. The Homecoming Dance was the social highlight of the fall season. This Homecoming festivity was especially important because of the Lancers' 47-13 victory over the Gretna Hawks. The high feelings were augmented by the Chasers, a local combo. During the evening the Homecoming King and Queen were crowned by Mr. Lee.

Tubby Day and Ellen Mills march in Homecoming Ceremonies.

“Up, Up and Away” is the theme of the Junior-Senior Ring Dance.

The theme of the Junior-Senior Ring Dance, held on January 17, was appropriately titled, “Up, Up and Away”. This theme held special meaning for the Juniors, who, after receiving their rings, had happy first thoughts of their not too distant graduation. A whimsical balloon was created to portray the theme, taken from a popular song title. Hundreds of colorful small balloons added to the effect. The Rockin’ Rhythms, a popular singing group from Richmond, provided superb music for dancing.

Mr. White “directs traffic” before the presentation of the class rings.

On November 19th the Junior class under the direction of Mrs. Margie Templeton and student director, Margaret Tyree, presented Moliere's "La Malade Imaginaire". The crochety invalid Arthur (Overton Harvey) reveled in his own ills while his scheming second wife Beatrice (Gay Wade) and a retinue of medical quacks, Doctor Defore (Clayton Campbell), Dr. Parker (Jimmy Hodges), and Dr. Flower (Starke Camden) strived to disinherit his two daughters Angel (Karen Painter) and Lois (June Mays). However, Arthur's pert maid, Toinette (Helen Grubbs), the real heroine of the play uncovered the plot and saved Angel from marrying the sissy Thomas Defore (Terry Hunter). Angel's lover, Clinton was played by Bobby Stinnette. At the conclusion of the play Angel and Clinton made marriage plans and Arthur decided to take up medicine on his own.

John Oblinger vies for the hand of Karen Painter as Helen Grubbs and Terry Hunter look on.

Helen Grubbs scrubs the floor at the command of hypochondriac Overton Harvey who is consulting David Hudson about his poor physical condition.

Randy Bomar "fakes out" the photographer as Cris Shaner, John Thompson, and Juliet Crennel prepare to read the Last Will and Testament.

Gay decorations provide festive atmosphere at Junior-Senior Banquet.

On March 14, the Juniors and Seniors enjoyed the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The theme, "The Merry Go Round of Life" was carried out in a carousel centerpiece for the head table, circus animal favors, and circus booths featuring gay streamers. Members of the faculty and a number of members of the county board of supervisors attended.

Margaret Tyree offered the invocation. Addresses were made by Starke Camden and Steve Crawford, Junior and Senior Class Presidents and everyone joined in singing the school song. On the lighter side of the Program, Gay Wade read a poem, "The Merry Go Round of Life" and the "Gypsy" Helen Grubbs divulged the future of various members of the Senior Class. The program was concluded by the reading of the Last Will and Testament by Randy Bomar, Christinia Shaner, John Thompson, Juliet Crennel, Bonnie Sue Bailey, Tommy Lee, and Phil Chenault.

Gay Wade asks John Oblinger's permission to see the prisoner, Kenneth Hall.

On March 7, Amherst County High School's one act play team, directed by Mrs. Marjorie Templeton presented The Valiant at the One Act Play Festival at Chatham High School. The play, which received a good rating, was presented to the student body later in the year.

In the play, Kenneth Hall played a convict-murderer, James Dyke, who had concealed his identity to protect his family who had long ago lost contact with him. Although Warden Holt (John Oblinger), Father Daly (Overton Harvey), and the jailer (Jackie Campbell) urged him to reveal his identity, Dyke remained adamant. When his long lost sister Josephine Paris (Gay Wade) arrived to question him, Dyke convinced her that he was not her brother but had known him and that he had died in the war - a hero.

Forensic Club presents "The Valiant".

Murderer James Dyke (Kenneth Hall) argues with Father Daly (Overton Harvey).

Mr. Pitsenbarger instructs Margaret Martin and Juliet Crennel on the finer points of acting.

Senior Class presents "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis".

On March 29, the Class of '68 under the direction of Mr. Henry Pitsenbarger and Miss Virginia McPherson, presented "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," an adaptation of that fabled television series. That diminutive rascal Dobie (Phil Chenault), infatuated by the charms of "rich girl" Helen Dixon (Donna Craven) has gotten the school newspaper The Echo in quite a financial predicament. However, aided by Bonnie Wellette (Bonnie Sue Bailey) who adores Dobie, a hillbilly band, the Happy Stella Kawolski Schottische Five led by Stella (Nancy Coleman), and an old flame turned movie star, Limbo Lamb (Virginia White), Dobie wages a furious campaign to restore the paper's credit. In the end Dobie triumphs over his "money difficulties" and the sincere, Girl Friday Bonnie, wins out over the frivolous scheming Helen. Other principal characters were: Petey Bellows, Helen's boyfriend, (Edwin Fitzgerald); Mr. Pipgrass, a seventy year old blind English teacher (William Douty); Miss Forepaugh, a conscientious chemistry teacher (Juliet Crenell); Imogene Klugenfelter (Margaret Martin); Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Helen's pretentious parents (John Thompson and Judy Turner); Adele, Limbo's maid (Carolyn Campbell); Mr. Gillis, Dobie's father (Tom Lee), Miss Newman, a secretary (Donna Mills); and Mr. Harrington, the high school principal (Garry DeVol).

Phil Chenault and Bonnie Bailey practice their parts for the Senior Play.

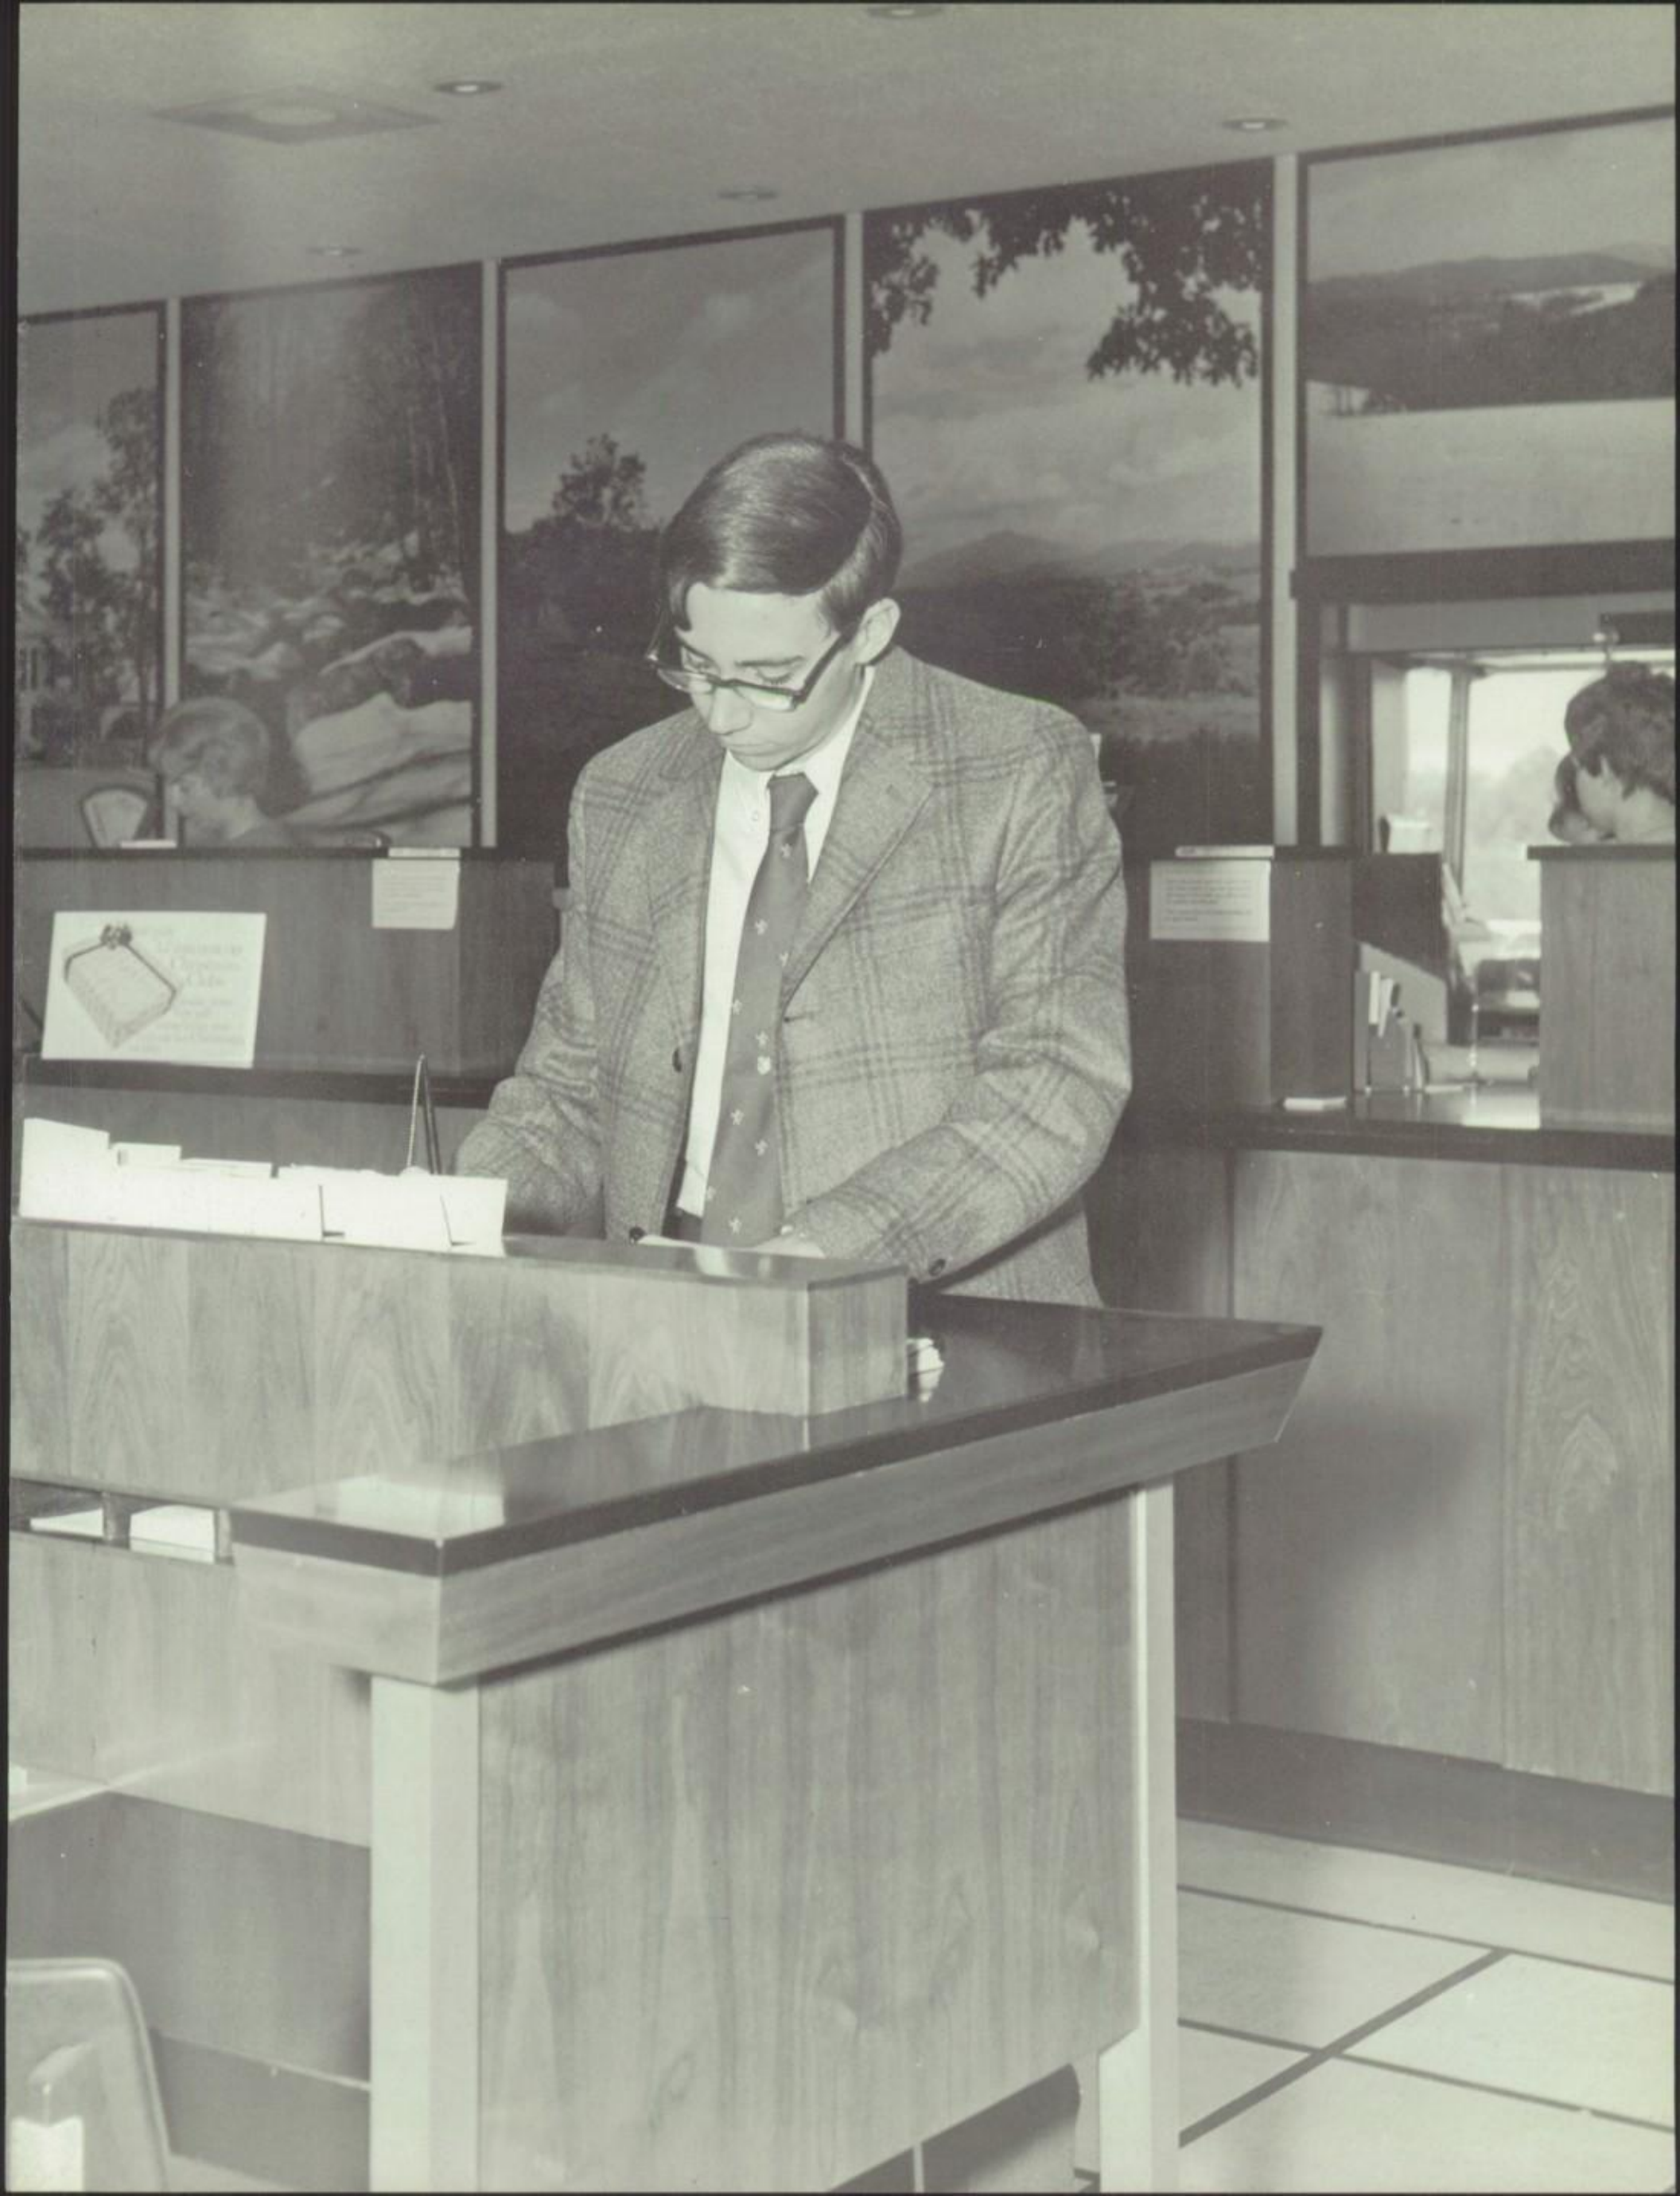

The advertising program - one of the most important business aspects of the 1968 Amethyst - began early in the summer. Staff members industriously canvassed assigned territories in the Amherst - Lynchburg - Appomattox business district. The persuasiveness and perseverance of the staff "paid off", for in 1968 the advertising program gained more financial support than ever before.

In addition to canvassing for the ads, other duties of the advertising staff included sending out bills and designing attractive advertisements.

Without the sponsorship of so many kind business people, the 1968 Amethyst could not have been the biggest and best yearbook A.C.H.S. has ever produced!
